

A Nature-Lovers Sanctuary in Vermont

Homeowners Sandra and Bob, along with their design team, transformed an old home that was falling apart into a nature-lovers sanctuary in rural Vermont. This was a complete tear-down which allowed them to start with a blank canvas.

“I wanted something that looked Vermont and was a nod to contemporary farmhouse and just would sit nestled in the property and feel just like part of nature.”

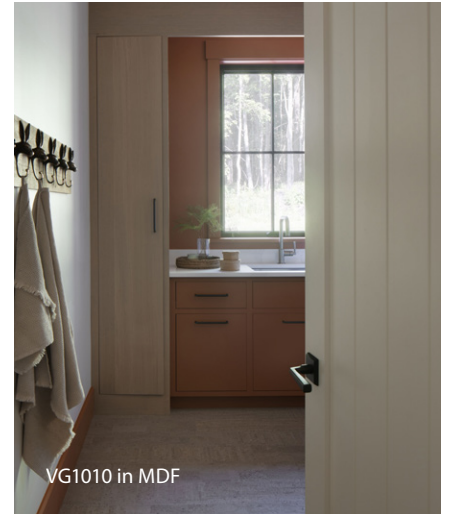

— Sandra Taylor, Homeowner

They wanted to be able to take in the sweeping views, and they wanted the exterior and interior of the home to reflect the surrounding nature. Sandra and Bob visited the Marvin Brand Experience Center at the 7 Tide home design showroom to help bring their vision to life.

VG2100 in MDF with Square Stick (SS) sticking, Flat (C) panel with standard V-groove profile and plank size and top panel replaced with clear glass.

“Using Marvin and TruStile, you can be creative; you can think outside the box. These products help fulfill your vision because it helps fulfill the customer's vision.”

— Dave Seward, Home Designer

TruStile's V-Groove door collection helped the team achieve the contemporary farmhouse look. Incorporating glass into key doors brings even more light in, adding to the bright and natural-feeling living space.

Learn more about this project and Marvin window selection, in Marvin's case study:

<https://www.marvin.com/blog/a-rural-vermont-home-takes-flight>

